Globally pervasive Covid-

19 is clearly describing the worthiness of both the above mentioned quotes. Countries which were premeditated to face the dangerous diseases are doing very well to contain the pandemic in their nations, but without pre-planned countries who were not ready for this type of disease are suffering from plethora of cases and deaths related to Covid-19. But not only preplanning can do anything, the works and efforts with the planning make anything possible whether to combat with nations or with this type of communicable diseases.

Right step at right point of time can also do better but there is nothing better than preplanning. It was the primitive tradition of humans to be prepared for forthcoming disasters or calamity. Now the modern world is only trying to consolidate its status only to fight with other nations but no one pondered that the nature which has been exploited by the humans can also attack back on them. If we compare this situation with ancient times, they were more premeditated than the people of today's world. They used to categorize the nature, in India there were prevalent traditions to categorize nature but now people just ostensibly show that they are doing same but the veracity is that modern people just contaminate the nature and consider it a trifle. There are many regions which still exist on earth suffering from drought and heavy flood. Why all these happen again and again every year? The simple answer is, lack of preparation, premeditation and pre-planning. No one tries to make some alterations and use excessive rainwater from some region to another region which has its need.

There are many examples from the world which are not able to contain the prevalence of the epidemic in their region. Though those are precedents for the modern and digital world, for example, The superpower country of the world is suffering from huge death there. These disasters are followed by Spain, Russia and United Kingdom. All these countries are famous for their technology advancement and considered at top in the developed countries list. But now some countries became notorious for not able to contain the virus and huge number of Death and total registered cases of infected people from coronavirus.

As coronavirus working too hard to prevalent all over the world, there are some countries and some states which were ready for this type of diseases and are now achieving success to defeat the coronavirus's disaster. One of them is Kerala state of India. Kerala had always played a praiseworthy role to fight against the communicable and widely spread diseases. On 19 May 2018, a Nipah virus disease (NiV) outbreak was reported from Kozhikode district of Kerala, India. This was the start of very dangerous disease in India. But because the outbreak of Nipah was originated in the state which is always ready to battle against any disease, the virus was unable to spread all over the country. This is the real power of premeditation, that helps all to face off any hazardous misery. Now, Kerala became the state where virus no doubtly spreaded but because of their readiness to evade from diseases helped Kerala to (0)-R-nought of Corona Virus. As soon as the tenure of Covid-19 get over, we should take it as inevitable catastrophe and prepare ourselves and the society for being irrevocable at the time of global pandemic as well. We can do this only when we get integrated and set an envision to handle all type of dangerous situations very efficaciously and make the whole country a hindrance in the path of these diseases so that they cannot touch any countryman and would not be able to create bountiful massacre.
